Following in the footsteps of my dad

Submitted by Kurtis Reid, Owner
KR Auto Body Repair Restoration LLC

Born and raised in Montego Bay, Jamaica, my journey and passion for auto body repair and restoration began at a young age. Growing up, I looked up to my father who was the most renowned painter in our town. Inspired by his expertise and craftsmanship, I spent my afternoons after school at his shop, eagerly learning and practicing alongside skilled workers who were fixing cars.

As fate would have it, my father migrated to the United States, specifically the Bronx, to pursue his career further. A few years later, at the age of 17, I followed in his footsteps and started my apprenticeship at Rely Auto Body in the Bronx. This is where I gained invaluable experience in frame repair, collision work, metal and fiberglass body filler craftsmanship. Every day was a new opportunity to hone my skills and develop my passion for excellence.

After completing my decade-long apprenticeship and honing my craft, I took the leap and opened my own auto body shop in the Bronx. I named it Good Quality Auto Body Repair, as it reflected my commitment to providing top-notch service and exceptional workmanship. For over a decade, I served the community, ensuring that every vehicle that left my shop was restored to perfection.

In 2012, I decided to explore new horizons and brought my expertise to North Dakota. I traveled to cities like Williston, Alexandria, and Epping, where I worked on repair and restoration projects. In 2015, I settled in Minot and established KR Auto Body Repair and Restoration. It was here that my skills truly flourished, and my dedication to excellence caught the attention of George Masters.

George Masters at the time was CEO of the Dakota cruisers, recognized my talent and invited me to work on a 1952 Ford restoration project. This opportunity opened doors for me, and I continued to restore numerous cars and trucks, solidifying my reputation as one of the best in auto restoration. With over 35 years of experience, I made the decision to bring my services to Riverdale, North Dakota, where I currently operate. Now as a second-generation auto body repair and restoration technician, I carry on my family's legacy with precision and a passion for providing quality service. In addition to auto body repair and restoration, I also offer services such as auto detailing and boat refinishing. My goal is to continue serving the community to the best of my ability, ensuring that every customer receives the highest level of workmanship and satisfaction.

With a love for autobody, repair, and restoration that started in Montego Bay, Jamaica, and has carried me through a lifetime of dedication and learning, I am committed to delivering excellence in every project I undertake. If you are interested in inquiring about our services or learning more about what we can do for you, please contact us at KR Auto Body Repair Restoration LLC at (701) 500-5828. Also check out my ad in this weeks paper where you can view examples of my work by following the direct link to Facebook and my website. I look forward to hearing from you soon and thank you for this opportunity to help you with your auto collision repair, custom painting, auto detailing, boat detailing and auto sales needs. ~Kurtis

'Ring of Fire' Solar Eclipse
Saturday, October 14th

Did you know there will be an eclipse of the sun on Saturday, October 14th? A "ring of fire" annular eclipse will make its appearance & its nickname comes from the way the sun's fiery light surrounds the moon's shadow lighting up the fringes and creating the so-called ring of fire. Here in our part of North Dakota we will see only a partial eclipse, but you still need proper glasses to view.

Stop in at the McLean-Mercer Regional Library this week to pick up a FREE pair of eclipse glasses to safely view the eclipse. The eclipse will start about 10:21am on Saturday morning. Remember we're open 8-5 Monday-Friday so you need to pick up your glasses by 5 pm Friday!

NATIONAL FARMER'S DAY | OCTOBER 12

National Day Calendar

National Farmer's Day on October 12th offers much-deserved praise to the hard-working farmers across the nation. In the midst of harvest-season, the day pays tribute to the men, women, and families who put food in the grocery stores and on our tables every day.

#NationalFarmersDay

National Farmer's Day was previously known as Old Farmer's Day

From very early in American culture, farmers set an example with their endless hard work. Not only do they provide a nation with the food we eat, but they also contribute to our economy in numerous ways. Before seeds even find their way into the ground, farmers supply a stream of jobs. From manufacturing, marketing, and tourism, farmers keep small and large communities going strong. Additional products and areas that rely on agriculture include:

- leather
- beverages
- railroad
- transportation
- apparel
- Textiles
- forestry
- restaurants
- trucking
- pharmaceuticals

Some cities and towns across the United States celebrate their own versions of Farmer's Day. Dates are scattered throughout the year with celebrations and festivals. Many of them are held in September and October.

October does seem fitting for celebrating this National Day as it is near the end of the harvest. Many farmers will be able to take a rest from their hard labor to join in the celebration of this holiday.

HOW TO OBSERVE NATIONAL FARMER'S DAY

While thanking a farmer is one way to celebrate the day, consider these opportunities to learn more about farming.

- Learn more about the farm to table process.
- Discover more about all the foods you consume.
- Attend small-town festivals. These often showcase the food and culture of farm life. By supporting the festivals, you're also supporting the farmer and their communities.
- Support local farmers. How? Buy fruits and vegetables from a farmer's market. Another way to support local farmers is by investing in cooperative farming. Visit pick your own farms. These farms not only offer fresh fruits and vegetables but hands-on experience harvesting. While you're not using equipment, you will get to enjoy an afternoon with friends and family. It's also an educational experience, too. Other fun and educational farm experiences are found at pumpkin patches. These farm settings offer a wide variety of activities full of autumn produce often grown locally. When you show your support for your farmers, you also support your community.
- Visit your local small-town historical societies. Not only do they record the history of the town, but with it the history of the farmers who helped to build the foundations of small-town America.

NATIONAL FARMER'S DAY HISTORY

Records of National Farmer's Day events exist dating back to the 1800s. However, we have not determined the exact origins of the day.

NORTH DAKOTA GAME & FISH

Inspecting for Zebra Mussels

The North Dakota Game and Fish Department is asking water recreationists and property owners to check for zebra mussels and other aquatic nuisance species when removing boat lifts, docks and other equipment from state waters.

Ben Holen, ANS coordinator, said water recreationists and property owners play a vital role in ANS prevention.

Zebra mussels attach to hard surfaces that are left in the water for long periods of time, first settling in tight spaces and areas that are protected from sunlight, Holen said. Equipment such as boat lifts and docks are high risk vectors for spreading ANS, especially zebra mussels.

“It makes it easier to do a thorough search when equipment is taken out of the water in fall,” he said. “Pay special attention to wheel wells, right angles on frames, and areas otherwise protected from sunlight. Feel for attached organisms that have small hair-like structures holding them in place. Small mussels can feel like rough sandpaper and adults can be as large as 2 inches long.”

Holen said if you think you’ve found a zebra mussel, take photos, write down any relevant information, such as how many were found and where, and report it online at the Game and Fish website gf.nd.gov/ans, or email Holen at bholen@nd.gov.

Report Violations with RAP

The North Dakota Game and Fish Department encourages hunters, anglers and landowners who witness a fish or wildlife violation to file a report with Report All Poachers.

Witnesses should report a violation by calling RAP at 701-328-9921.

Witnesses should note the vehicle description, including make, color, license plate number and state issued. Description of the violator should also be considered.

The RAP line offers rewards – from $100 to $1,000 depending on the nature and seriousness of the crime – for information leading to the conviction of fish and wildlife law violators. Reports can also go directly to game wardens or other law enforcement agencies. Callers can remain anonymous.

EXTENSION AND AG RESEARCH NEWS

Proper maintenance can prevent combine fires

Farmers should take steps to minimize the risk of combine fires

Soybean harvest is in full swing across North Dakota, with field corn and sunflowers to follow. Weather conditions have been very warm and mostly dry, with a few intermittent showers across the state to shut down harvest progress for a few days. North Dakota State University Extension farm and ranch safety coordinator Angie Johnson urges farmers to use any breaks in harvest for necessary maintenance that can help prevent equipment failures and fires.

“Equipment fires, specifically combine fires, are a serious threat during the harvest season,” says Johnson. “No one wants to lose their combine or the remaining unharvested crop in the field due to fire. The biggest risk, however, is the loss of human life, as combines, crops and other equipment can be replaced – you cannot.”

While performing daily maintenance and making repairs, take time to examine your combine’s electric and hydraulic systems, advises Johnson. Properly route or restrain wires and hoses so they do not rub or get cut by moving parts.

“Hydraulic systems are prone to produce small leaks, and there may be oily residues from repairs,” says Johnson. “Hydraulic oil combined with crop dust provides a ready fuel source that will burn if ignited. It is very common for the fuel source to be crop residue or soybean dust.”

Soybean dust is fine, fluffy material that finds its way to almost all machine parts. A combine that is not thoroughly cleaned periodically will have highly combustible material tucked into numerous places ready to become a fuel source for fire.

“If your combine is on fire, be sure to call your fire department right away,” says Rich Schock, chief of the Kindred Fire Department. “By calling early, before the fire engulfs your combine and spreads further, we can work towards helping you protect your investment while also keeping you safe and out of harm’s way.”

The dust and chaff produced by harvest crops can be ignited by many sources. Sources include:

Wore out/damaged bearings

Engine components, such as the exhaust manifold and turbocharger, which produces exhaust gasses exceeding 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit

Friction between plant parts rubbing together

Electrical shorts or arcs

Johnson urges farmers to consider the following tips for reducing the risk of combine fires while harvesting crops:

Pre-operational checks. Take time to walk around the combine before the start of each day during harvest season. Use an air compressor or leaf blower every day when the machine is off and cooled down to remove dirt, dust, chaff and other plant residue that has accumulated. Always wear hearing protection, eye protection and respiratory protection, such as an N95 mask. While blowing off residue, look in high-risk areas, such as the engine and engine compartments, hydraulic pumps and pump drives, gear boxes, batteries and cables. When cleaning, take time to look for any issues that require repair, such as leaking hydraulic hoses that can be a perfect place for chaff to stick and build up, creating an easy fuel source for a fire. —————→

Take time to service the machine daily based on the combine's operator manual. Grease and lubricate bearings and chains, and continue to look for areas that have excessive wear or damage.

Watch for wiring issues. Today's combines are controlled by many sensors and electrical components that are extremely complex. Take time to glance through wiring systems to see where wires appear to be unrestrained or damaged from rubbing or making contact with moving parts.

Use an infrared thermometer. Hot bearings are a combustion source. Warm up your combine before taking it to the field and use an infrared thermometer to determine the operating temperature of your combine's bearings. Safely open the combine's shields, and from a safe distance, point the infrared thermometer at a bearing to read the measured temperature. If one bearing has a temperature much higher than the others, it may be worn or damaged. Plan to replace the bearing as soon as possible. Infrared thermometers are inexpensive (less than $50) and available at many hardware and farm stores. Another great time to check the temperature of the combine's bearings is while you are waiting for the truck or grain cart.

Install an air intake kit. An air intake kit allows clean air found above the combine's "dust cloud" to enter the combine's air intake screen, instead of taking in the dusty, dirt-filled air produced from harvesting the crop. Take the time to consider an option that will work best for you and your combine.

Avoid combining during fire danger conditions. Avoid harvesting when it is hot and dry. Relative humidity values are low in the fall, increasing the risk of fire, especially in the late afternoon hours when temperatures rise. Limit the harvesting of soybeans that are extremely dry. Soybean moisture can get as low as 8% to 9% on a warm, dry afternoon. Keep an eye on outdoor air temperature and wind speeds. As hard as it is to shut down for the day when conditions are favorable for harvesting, shutting down when temperatures are hot and windy could prevent you from losing your combine to a fire. Be aware and find out if your area is in a fire danger zone by visiting: <https://ndresponse.gov/burn-ban-restrictions-fire-danger-maps>.

Carry two, fully charged fire extinguishers. Ideally, you should have two 20-pound ABC fire extinguishers on your combine, one in the cab and one on the outside of the machine near ground level. Have them ready and operational, and review with workers how to use them when needed. Call 911 immediately to get your closest fire department on scene, as fires can escalate quickly.

Create a soil perimeter. If you choose to harvest during high wind and temperature conditions, make a tillage pass around the perimeter of your field to prevent the possibility of a fire spreading to other areas.

Strategically park harvest equipment. While harvesting a field, park your semis, trucks, pickups, tractors, grain carts, etc. in a place with minimal vegetation. Hot exhaust can be emitted from these vehicles and can start a fire in the ditch if dry grass is present. Before parking equipment and machinery in a shed or quonset for the night, let them cool down first to reduce the risk of a building fire.

"Before going out to combine, let others know your plans and field location," Johnson says. "If you do not return when you say you will, have someone check to make sure you are OK. This also means you should carry a fully charged cellphone with you while you are combining."

Dust and fine crop particles are a natural result of combining. Taking time to clear the chaff and dust helps to remove a potential fuel source for combine fires.

"Even though it may feel like you are slowing down your harvest progress by stopping the machine to clean off chaff and dust, it could be the difference between finishing your harvest season or watching it go up in smoke," says Johnson. "Do the best you can each day to keep your equipment cleaned and maintained. This will protect your investment and yourself from serious injury."

Easy French Dip

Sandwiches

plainchicken.com

Ingredients

- 1 (16.3-oz) can refrigerated biscuits (8-count)
- 1 lb. thinly sliced deli roast beef
- 2 Tbsp creamy horseradish sauce or to taste
- 8 slices provolone cheese
- 1 (1-oz) packet Au Jus Gravy mix

Directions

Preheat oven to 400°F. Line a baking sheet with parchment paper. Separate each biscuit into two layers. Spread each layer with horseradish sauce. Top half of the biscuit layers with provolone cheese slice and roast beef. Top meat and cheese with remaining biscuit layers and pinch edges to seal. Place on the prepared baking sheet. Bake for 12 to 15 minutes, until golden brown. While biscuits are baking, prepare Au Jus Gravy mix according to package directions. Can use your favorite cheese in place of provolone – pepper jack, cheddar, or white cheddar would all be good.

In honor of a beautiful girl, my daughter, Ava's Light is born. Through this mission of supporting local businesses & organizations in all our communities, by helping to promote them with creativity & inspiration, her legacy lives on, one assignment at a time.

The Dam News

My story

When I moved to this area a few years ago from out of state, I realized that all things revolve around beautiful Lake Sakakawea. The communities wouldn't be here if it wasn't for the Dam and because of the incredible history in this area, The Dam News will celebrate all communities and those within that make this so special. ~Brenda
